Scriptural Applications Of The Treasury Bobby Liddell

What Is The Work Of The Church?

How can we use the treasury to do what God intended the church to do if we do not know what the work of the church is? Too many church members (and elders) have failed to learn, or have forgotten just what the mission of the church is.

"What is the basic purpose of the Christian Church?" It is important that Church leaders spend as much time as may be necessary on this question, for a program founded upon an inadequate theology of the Church will be a house built upon sand.¹³

The mission of the saved (Acts 2:47; Eph. 5:23) is to save (Mark 16:15-16). The work of the church is the work of Christ--to save souls (Luke 19:10), and this work the church does through evangelism, edification, and benevolence.

Instead of affirming that there are three separate but equal works of the church—evangelism, edification, and benevolence—would it not be truer to the Book to say that the church has only one mission—and that mission is to save souls—and with this mission in mind, the gospel is proclaimed, the saints are edified, and the needy are helped?...In all that the church does there must be this desire to save men and women, and the works of edification and benevolence must really serve this purpose.¹⁴

To edify means to strengthen, or build up, and refers to the building up of church members (1 Cor. 14:12; 1 The. 5:14). Benevolence means helping those in need by doing good (Gal. 6:10; Eph. 4:28; Acts 10:38). Evangelism means preaching the Gospel, heralding the good news, to every creature in the whole world (Mat. 28:18-20).

The church must do right in the realm which God has authorized. Brother V.P. Black wrote: "Almost everything the church spends money for comes under four headings. 1. Preaching the gospel. 2. Benevolence. 3. Operational expense. 4. Self-edification."¹⁵ To further the cause of Christ, in providing for these expenses, the giver gives to the Lord, not to the preacher, the elders, or himself. The church's work, so important and needed, demands generous, liberal, sacrificial support. Covetousness (Col. 3:5; Luke 12:15), perennially prevalent among too many brethren, prevents the church from doing its work.

Rex A. Turner, Sr., wrote:

Such a tremendous program of work as rests upon every local church requires money. The greater the financial ability of a church, the greater the work of the church can be, all things being equal.¹⁶

Leon C. Burns gave these motivating comments.

Any congregation that is content to do no more than keep its doors open is completely void of leadership and unworthy of the name of Christ. Any congregation that can do no more than pull its own weight (unless it be a mission point itself) is not a New Testament church, and members of such a congregation who are content to do no more than this can hardly be called Christians.¹⁷

As elders oversee the church (Acts 20:28), so they are to oversee the use of the treasury to accomplish its work.

Many members of the Lord's church have the mistaken impression that an elder is to concern himself with only the spiritual needs of the congregation and therefore should not worry about the fundamental responsibilities of keeping up with the financial assets of the church. This doctrine is not to be found in the New Testament.... Elders certainly have the right to delegate the time-consuming functions of counting, depositing, and record keeping, but cannot escape the responsibility to make sure that these delegated functions are properly carried out.... Elders, therefore, in addition to the responsibility to give as prospered have the tremendous added responsibility of providing good stewardship for the entire contributions of the church.¹⁸

How Can We Know What God Authorizes To Be Done With The Church Treasury?

We may ascertain Bible authority by observing from God's Word: (1) Example, (2) Implication, (3) Direct Statement, and (4) Expediency. While the first three might be more easily discerned, obviously some uses of the church treasury are in the realm of expediency. To circumvent the need for divine authority, some have made disbursements from the church treasury for actions they have falsely declared to be in the realm of expediency. Brother Roy Deaver defined expediency.

Expediency is that which expedites. There is no expediency where there is no advantage. So far as concerns obligations of the local church, an expedient is that which is in harmony with the Scriptures, in which there is an inherent advantage, and which may be selected by the elders in carrying out any obligation of the church—that obligation growing out of that for which there is approved example, an implication, or a direct statement.¹⁹
