“Going to the Memphis School of Preaching was one of the best decisions I have ever made”

DONALD GAREY

I was introduced to the Memphis School of Preaching by a graduate. He told me it would be the best two years of my life. Aside from him, my first impression of the school was the annual lectureship, where I was given the privilege to stay with some students.

I was very impressed by their conduct and attitude toward the school. They were grateful to be there. I was not used to that mentality toward an educational institution. School was always just something that I had to do, even through college.

After enrolling in the school, I discovered what New Testament Christianity is all about, and not long after that, I realized that this would indeed be the best two years of my life.

Being a “wrap-around” student, my family has been blessed to have met one more class than the typical student, but we have also had to part ways with one more. While attending MSOP, we have made friends that will last for a lifetime and an eternity.

GRADUATION, JUNE 17, 2012

Standing ready to congratulate the graduates of the 2012 class (like Sam Carman, shown below) are the Forest Hill elders: Keith B. McAlister, Harold D. Mangrum, Gregory D. Mangrum, Floyd M. Hayes, J. D. Crowe, and Anthony D. Callahan

Dr. Keith A. Mosher, Sr., Dean of Academics, presents the 2012 graduating class with the charge, "Preach the word."

Pictured above, at the Graduation Banquet, are some of the faithful, godly wives, who are so important to their husbands' successful completion of the rigorous course of study at MSOP. To show our appreciation for all they do, we award to student wives their PhT (Putting Hubby Through) Degrees.

Deltom Lequernaque, of Lima, Peru, is all smiles after receiving his diploma from MSOP

Byran Hatcher "Outstanding Student" (top right);

Stephen Scaggs "Most Improved" (bottom left); and,

Will Anderson "Academic Award" (bottom right).

FUTURE GRADUATES

A week after graduation of one class, Summer School begins, as another class of faithful brothers prepares to preach the gospel of Christ. Keith Mosher starts them on their two-year journey with a challenging class on Logic.

FUTURE PREACHERS AND LEADERS

While Summer School class meets in one classroom, FOUNDATIONS, our annual training program for young men, directed by MSOP Dean of Admissions, B. J. Clarke, begins in another room, full of eager students, as MSOP graduate, T. J. Clarke, instructs them.
